DISEASES OF MEN.

The importance of the healthiness of the nervous system cannot be overestimated; its power over life and death and the direct bearing which it has on human happiness need to be recognized; its capabilities, in the exercise of its power, are boundless; its preservation, its moderate uses, the danger of overtaxing it, whether through thought, study, or intense application in any direction, are all important considerations; abstaining necessary to the conduct of complicated and momentous business interests, or by the exercises of the mind, are all important considerations; abstaining from an expert who, for a long series of years, has devoted his whole time to the study of the nervous system, and the treatment of all forms of nervous disease, is of great importance; he will receive particular attention. French pools open at 6 A.M. T. B. JOHNSON.
